

Vincent Pavanello

Strategic Advisor

Vincent Pavanello co-founded Real Estech in 2016, an association that brings together 300 real estate startups across Europe.

In 2017, he published "L'Immobilier demain", the first book dedicated to the impact of digital technology on the real estate and construction sectors. In 2019, he served as rapporteur for a French government mission on accelerating innovation in housing, commissioned by Julien Denormandie, then Minister of Housing.

He teaches at Sciences Po Paris and has spoken at more than 100 conferences worldwide.

After graduating from ESCP Europe, he began his career in a Paris-based family office specializing in real estate investment across Europe. He now heads ReT Conseil, advising a dozen real estate executives in France, Switzerland, Morocco, and Canada. He is also a Venture Partner in a venture capital fund managed by LBO France.
